"Paid in Full," Greatest of American Plays
For local playgoers the treat of the season comes next Friday when at the Norway Opera House Eugene Walter's drama of New York City of today, "Paid in Full" will be presented. Not to know of this most celebrated play of the time is to confess one's self unenlightened as to the exceptional features of the American stage; not to have seen it is to be outside the three million persons who had witnessed it in many performances up to the end of last season. No play ever produced in this country or abroad has the brilliant record of "Paid in Full." It has been seen by more persons, it has been played by more companies and more theaters than any other play in longer runs. Two years straight away and several return engagements are to its credit in New York, where as in Chicago it won celebrity as the only drama ever to go through a summer. All this goes to show that "Paid in Full" is a play that merits its fame as the greatest play of the age. It is singularly lifelike and of engrossing interest. Those who have seen it are its most enthusiastic admirers; those who have not will surely welcome the opportunity. It will be acted by a splendid company and every detail of the performance will be precisely the same as in New York. Every character in "Paid in Full" is a striking type, every scene and situation holds deep emotion or gay humor.

NUMBER 38. SEPTEMBER 23, 1910, NORWAY, MAINE. VOLUME XLII.

Makes Complaint.
Rev. H. N. Pringle of Waterville, secretary of the Christian Civic league of Maine, on account of alleged gambling at the Oxford County fair at South Paris, held Sept. 13 to 15, has made complaint to Commissioner of Agriculture A. W. Gilman that the state laws governing fairs have been broken and asking that the stipend due from the state be withheld.
Mr. Pringle's letter to Mr. Gilman, in which he sets forth his complaint and the reasons for making it, is as follows: Sept. 16, 1910.

H. N. A. W. Gilman, Commissioner of Agriculture, Augusta, Me.
Dear Sir: I herewith make complaint that "gambling and games of chance" were permitted at the Oxford County fair at South Paris on Sept. 13-15, 1910, with the knowledge and consent of the managers of said fair. I ask that the state stipend be withheld from this annual fair association under sections 14 and 15, chapter 95, laws of Maine, 1900, which require before the payment of the stipend a certificate from the commissioner of agriculture in regard to immoral shows, gambling and the sale of intoxicating liquors have been strictly complied with.

At the request of several citizens, representing that there was gross disregard on the fair ground of the requirements above cited, I went with Detective G. A. Maxwell of Portland, on Sept. 14, 1910, to this fair ground and remained there all day that day and part of the day following. I saw, running without interruption, two lotteries with numbered tickets, one numbered wheel of chance, and four other games of chance, all in violation of the state law. Mr. Maxwell witnessed most of these gambling schemes.

Failing to observe any action directed by the police or officials of the fair against these gamblers, and noticing that the gambling continued in the presence of the officers and officials of the fair (including the president, William J. Wheeler), I obtained warrants at the Norway municipal court, and on the last day of the fair, Sept. 15, had five men arrested for gambling. They were all convicted and paid fines and costs as follows: Sam Appleton, $22.33; Simon Marcus, $17.33; Solly Meyers, $22.33; William Hersey, $22.33; Samuel Mahoney, $17.33. I would have had four or five more gamblers arrested if I had been able to get enough officers to serve the warrants simultaneously for the entire number.

Before taking any action at South Paris fair, I conferred with several reliable citizens of South Paris and Norway who unanimously represented to me that the authorities of the South Paris fair had been very lax in enforcing the laws against gambling, and attributed this neglect to the desire to obtain the rental money for the space occupied by that class of law breakers. My observation all day Wednesday and Thursday forenoon confirmed that representation.

Very respectfully yours,
H. N. PRINGLE.
Harvest Sunday.
What is styled as Harvest Sunday, was observed at the M. E. church, Sunday. Vegetables, fruit, jellies and canned fruits were generously given. These will later on be given to the poor and needy in our midst, or sent to the Deaconess' Home in Portland.
Cut flowers and potted plants were used with the harvest contributions to decorate the church. Many gave money to be used for the poor.
Mrs. Cragin presided at the organ as usual. A choir's choir rendered beautiful music. Ethel Wentworth gave a very pleasing solo. The male quartet also gave a selection. Rev. B. C. Wentworth, who was at his best, preached the "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." At the close of the sermon, one hundred and seventy-five dollars was pledged by the congregation to defray church expenses.

The Laying of the Corner Stone.
In spite of the clouds that threatened, Tuesday proved to be a perfect day when the laying of the corner stone of the new Methodist church was to take place. The services commenced at two o'clock and there was a large crowd in attendance.
A platform was built over what will be the entrance of the church and was occupied by the speakers of the day, and the Sobart Quartette which rendered several beautiful selections.
Rev. B. N. Kewley called the assembly together, and called on the District Supt., Rev. G. A. Holmes to offer prayer. Remarks were also made by Rev. I. O. Wentworth of Norway who spoke of God's plan of salvation, who saw a definite plan for the work of the church done through the ages, and said that the building of this church was carrying out a part of that plan.
Rev. I. O. Wentworth of Norway was then called on, who said that in all his years of ministry he had never attended the laying of a corner stone. In the course of his remarks he referred to the building of King Solomon's Temple, how one stone was rejected by the workmen, but after the completion of the Temple it was found the missing stone was the one which was planned for the corner stone and was the most beautiful of them all. He spoke of how this was symbolic of Christ, the stone which the builders rejected, but who now has become the head of the corner.
Rev. A. E. Davis, Pastor of the Baptist Church, congratulated the Pastor, Church, and the village at large on the edifice which was so auspiciously commenced. He laid special stress on the thought that the success of this church and all others laid in the accepting and believing in the divinity of Christ.

Rev. A. T. McWhorter, Pastor of the Congregational Church spoke of the success of the church depending on the granite walls and the beauty of the structure in the faith and devotion of its members.
Rev. A. W. Pottle of Buckfield, a former pastor of this church and who is very much interested in this new building, laid the corner stone. Mr. Pottle said that it was 50 years ago this year when he stood in nearly the same place and was ordained into the ministry and went to his first church at Bethel.
The stone which weighed 270 lbs was suspended from a derrick and with a few preparatory remarks, Mr. Pottle placed a sealed copper box containing a Bible belonging to Mrs. Pauline Soper, a Disciple of the Methodist Church, a list of the officials and the names of the building committee, a list of the members of the church and the propositions made by William Deering through whose generosity the church was made possible. The Corner Stone was then lowered into place and sealed by the masons.

In the evening a Harvest supper was served by the ladies, at the G. A. R. hall, to a good number. This was the first supper of the season and made a very fitting close for the day.

Throw out the Line

Give Them Help and Many Norway People Will Be Happier.

"Throw Out the Line!"—The kidneys need help.

They're getting worse every minute. Will you help them?

Will cure any form of kidney trouble.

Otto Schmeier, Main St., Norway, Me., says: "I have no hesitation in allowing my name to be used as an endorser of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of a severe attack of kidney trouble several years ago and I have taken them on several occasions since then, when I felt that my kidneys needed a tonic. This remedy has always given me prompt relief and has rid my system of uric poison. Other members of my family have also used Doan's Kidney Pills with excellent results. I hope every person in Norway suffering from kidney trouble will procure this remedy from Stone's drug store and give it a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.

BRYANT POND.

Oréno, A. Cole.

Ore Cole died at her home, Sept. 12, aged 107. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deloraine Cole of this place. Mr. Cole is our local mail man and a life resident of our town.

To a casual observer the case is extremely pathetic for the reason that she watched ever her husband's failing for five years, so slow in fact that it was hardly perceptible to those who were with her from day to day, until from a bright, beautiful child she became a helpless invalid, losing even the power of speech.

During this time several specialists were consulted and no pains were spared, nothing was left undone to procure her restoration or add to her comfort. As the years and months passed, day after day, the little white haired mother watched her husband's failing for five years, so slow in fact that it was hardly perceptible to those who were with her from day to day, until from a bright, beautiful child she became a helpless invalid, losing even the power of speech.

Tonic or Stimulant?
There is an immense difference between a tonic and a stimulant. Up one day, way back the next; that's a stimulant. Steady progress day by day toward perfect health; that's a tonic. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic, a strong tonic. The only Sarsaparilla entirely free from alcohol. Do not stimulate unless your doctor says so. He knows. Ask him. Do as he says. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Constipation is the one great cause of sick-headache, biliousness, indigestion, bad breath, debility, nervousness. Has your doctor ever recommended Ayer's Pills to you?

Daddy's Bedtime Story—What the Meadow Lark Discovered

TONIGHT I'm going to tell you a different kind of story from any you ever heard before," said daddy to Jack and Evelyn when he had settled down comfortably for his smoke and the bedtime talk. "You know the meadow lark is one of the birds that fly high and sing sweetly. Did you ever hear one sing in the country?"

"I have," said Jack. "I don't think I ever did," said Evelyn.

"Well, watch for one the next time you go to Uncle Samuel's, and if you can find her nest there'll be just the prettiest eggs in it you ever saw."

This particular meadow lark left her nest one beautiful morning and began soaring up, up, up, till it seemed as if she could never come back. Lots of times before she had been up just as high and never thought of looking to see if anything was in her way. No other bird could soar so high except perhaps the eagle, and eagles were so scarce that she hadn't met one in years. So up she went out of sight of the other birds, scarcely heeding where she went, until—

"Bumpety-bump—she struck something. Well, well, well, what could it mean? Nothing like that ever happened before in all her life. How it did make the poor little lark's headache! Dear me, what could it be? She was so dazed she almost forgot to fly and began to sink back to earth very swiftly. But I must try to fly," she thought, "or I'll be killed." So she flapped her wings weakly and began to rise again, and, looking upward to avoid striking the same thing again, she saw—well, what do you suppose she saw?"

"An eagle!" asked Evelyn.

"No, it wasn't an eagle. It had wings, but it wasn't a bird. It looked very funny to the lark."

"Oh, I know," said Jack; "an airship!"

"Yes, it was an airship—an aeroplane, as they call it. It had great big wings on each side and an engine in the middle that went chug-chugging like an automobile, and steering it if there wasn't a real man just like the lark had seen down in the meadows sometimes. He sat there and didn't appear to be afraid of tumbling off at all. He went along, dipping down and dipping up, and down, up and down, for ever so long till the little lark got way out from home, and when she was tired following it the queer big thing kept near, and at last she turned around and flew back home, which took her a long time, and she told Papa Lark and all the birdies she had just seen the strangest bird that ever happened that made a terrible noise in flying and, what was worse, made an awful smell like smoke that almost choked one as it passed along in the air."

The reigning sovereign of Atruria, Prince Carl, had a son, Oluf. A neighboring principality—Essengen—had lost its rulers in the male line, none remaining except the Princess Clothilde and her younger sister Minna. Clothilde, who occupied the throne, being a very feminine woman, was averse to the duties of sovereignty. She would have abdicated in favor of her sister, but Minna had no more desire to rule than Clothilde. Indeed, the people of Essengen were a turbulent lot who required the strong hand of a man to govern them and made no secret of their contempt for a sovereign queen.

There was every reason why the two contiguous principalities should be joined under one head. Negotiations to that effect were entered upon between Prince Carl on the one side and the nobles of Essengen on the other. It was proposed that Prince Oluf should marry the Princess Clothilde, the two to be prince and princess of the united principalities. After many demands and concessions a compact was made, and nothing remained but the consent of the two parties most especially concerned—Prince Oluf and Princess Clothilde. Prince Oluf visited the princess, and as luck would have it, she fell desperately in love with him.

One of the points claimed by the princess' subjects was that she should be sovereign equally with the prince, her husband, for at the time of the nuptials Prince Carl was to abdicate in favor of his son. There was so much feeling among the people of Essengen that in order to satisfy them one of Clothilde's ministers suggested that she wear the iron crown of the sovereign on her head at all public functions. The crown being heavy, a light one was made, and the princess wore it nearly all the while.

Great preparations were made for the wedding, which was to take place at the capital of Essengen, after which the bridal couple were to take up their residence in Atruria. The princess was so deeply in love with Oluf that she desired his presence of the time in Essengen. This was not pleasing to a great dislike for the prince. Indeed, she gave out to those about her that she would be glad when the couple were married, since then they would remove to Atruria and she would no longer be troubled with the presence of a very disagreeable man.

Shortly before the nuptials were to take place the Princess Clothilde fell ill. There was at the time so much feeling on the part of her people as to her union sovereignty with the prince, who was to be her husband, that, although she was an invalid, her ministers insisted on her still wearing the crown. On one occasion when she had left off a citizen of influence who opposed the union of the principalities was admitted to the princess' apartments to see her and as soon as he had left the palace attempted to foment a revolution on the ground that the princess had left on the crown.

Princess Clothilde grew worse and died, but a few days before the appointed marriage. Prince Carl, his son, Prince Oluf, the Atrurians and many Essengens were bitterly disappointed that the prospective union of the two countries had thus fallen through. Prince Oluf, however, who had taken as much liking to Princess Minna as she had taken dislike to him—indeed, it was said that had she been sovereign she would have been his choice—proposed that all that had been arranged should be carried out, Minna to become his wife instead of Clothilde. The proposition was accepted to by the union party of Essengen, but all expected that Minna even for reasons of state would not marry a man she so cordially disliked. However, the council went to her in a body, represented to her the importance of the union of the two countries and proposed that she become the wife of the man who was to have married her sister.

She was married.

Then commenced a struggle on the part of the unionists of Essengen, Prince Carl and especially Prince Oluf to induce her to change her mind. Prince Oluf, who had been in love with her instead of her sister from the start, was wild with disappointment. He wooed her with delicacy, but did not succeed in changing her antipathy for him. But what he could not bring about was in part effected by the princess' ministers. Finally on their representation that it was her duty to sacrifice herself for her people's good she consented to the marriage.

As soon as the fact was given out to the people the prime minister advised the princess to wear the iron crown.

And now a strange thing happened. Prince Oluf was advised that the princess desired to see him. He entered gloomily from the fact of a dislike on the part of the woman he loved that he had not been able to conquer. What was his surprise when the princess put her arms lovingly around his neck and her head dropped on his shoulder.

She married not only for reasons of state, but for love.

Recently experiments in Paris by scientists have established the fact that a metal circlet worn on the head of a person suffering from hysteria if afterward placed on the head of another person will produce the same effect as in the first instance.

May we infer that in this instance it produced the same love?

CASE FOR CLIPPINGS.
How to Make a Classified Receipt for Small Pieces of Paper.

If one has the "clipping habit" and does not have some regular place to keep the little pieces of paper they are generally become a nuisance and are constantly in the way. And yet any girl who takes much interest in reading is sure to find something every now and then that she would like to keep.

The best way to manage the matter is to have a classified clipping case and so keep them all ready for immediate reference whenever they are wanted. Such a saving of time and energy there is in not having to hunt for what one wants on the instant. An easy way to make a clipping case is to buy some of the long legal envelopes and mark each one with a word or several words indicating some subject one is interested in and then fasten them all together.

The words should be painted or done in fancy lettering with a pen. Such subjects as "Travel," "Art," "Drama," "Music" and "Useful Suggestions" are used, but the maker can choose her own subjects, and new envelopes can be added at any time.

After the envelopes are marked two covers must be made just the same size as the envelopes. They are made of cardboard, painted or covered with brocade or embroidered linen. They are placed outside of the envelopes, and the whole thing is fastened together by cutting holes through them all near each end of the lower edge of the envelopes, the side away from the flaps, putting a ribbon through the holes and tying a bow at the back. These ribbons can at any time be pulled out and new envelopes put in either to renew torn ones or to add a new subject.

The covers of these cases are sometimes very beautiful. Some are made of handsome brocade and others of leather, with cut designs lined with satin. Any kind of elaborate embroidery may also be used.

Why should a miser envy a clock that goes too fast? Because it is constantly gaining.

The State exhibition of the Maine Pomological Society will be held in Auburn hall, Nov. 9-10.

To Kill Bull Thistles. Bull thistles, common in pastures, cannot always be killed by mowing. Mowing tends to prevent maturity of seed. Cutting off the thistles just below the surface of the ground two or three times a year will effectually eradicate them.

Durable Hitching Post. Article Made of Concrete Combines Attractiveness With Convenience. Attractiveness as well as convenience is embodied in the concrete hitching post shown in the illustration. The mold shown at left of drawing is made of boards by cutting six uprights to conform to the outside of the post, of which a good size is to have the base or square bottom six inches high and eighteen inches square. The sloping sides are twenty-four inches high and slant, so that the top is but six inches or eight inches square. This is done by cutting boards of the correct shape and size for base and slanting sides and then nailing them to the uprights so as to make the mold in two sections, each section alike. Just one-half of mold or one section is shown in the illustration. The opposite section is placed beside this, and the two are held together with hooks and eyelets while molding the work.

The ring is easily made by any blacksmith and has a rod to extend into the body of post about eight inches and with the end bent so it will not pull out easily. This is placed in the mold before filling in the concrete and thus is firmly imbedded in same. The mold is removed by turning the work upright or upon its base, as it is to stand, and then simply unhooking the hooks, when the two sections can be easily removed.

The top is molded by placing the mold on a plank into which a hole has been cut, so that the ring and rod to project from top of post will set into same, thus molding the top neatly and bringing the trowel finish upon the bottom of post.—Farm and Ranch.

SCIENCE ON THE FARM.
Enables the Farmer to Trade $2 For $9, Says a Scientist.

"Carrying Scientific Agriculture to the Farmer" was recently discussed by Dean H. L. Russell, University of Wisconsin. Scientific agriculture is permanent agriculture. The Chinese have a more fertile soil than ours because they have applied scientific agriculture. Holland produces thirty-three bushels of wheat per acre. We produce thirteen bushels.

Great interest could be aroused by convincing our people that there is an undiscovered continent whose soil is as productive as ours. We will find that continent when we discover the methods by which our soils can be made to double their production. Our experiment stations have discovered the secret, but that will do no good until the farmers of the world understand it. The publications of our stations must reach our people and be read by them. Information must be put in concrete form; it must be visualized.

Three things are necessary in farming—first, improved seed; second, improved production; third, reduction of loss. We are appointing county demonstrators who go into each county and employ the "show me" method of farming. Corn, wheat and other grains and crops are planted and the cultivation done before the farmer and his help.

The farmer may be prejudiced against new methods, but this opposition yields when he is shown the better way. Wisconsin was driven from raising wheat by the chinch bug, but this bug was a godsend to agriculture because the farmers went into the dairy business.

By growing wheat we increased our bank account and depleted our soils; by dairying we both increased our bank account and the fertility of our farms. The purchase of $2 worth of phosphorus on a stock farm increased our crops $9 worth. We are always willing to trade $2 for $9. There is a limited amount of phosphorus in our soils, and to keep up the phosphorus content we buy for $10 as much phosphorus in the raw rock as we formerly got for $25 in the treated goods. The tax which comes from apathy, indifference and ignorance is the highest tax farmers pay.

HEBRON.

Extra Marshall.
 Ezra Marshall, whose sudden death occurred Tuesday, was one of the oldest residents in Hebron. He had always lived on the place where he died. He left a widow, two sons, Fred H. and Charles, and one daughter, Mrs. Addie Keene. He was 80 years of age.
 The funeral was Friday. Rev. W. H. T. Beck conducted the services. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Marshall attended the funeral, also Geo. Haskell and daughter, Nellie of West Paris and Mrs. Alice Merrill of Yarmouth.

Hebron Academy has 225 students. Alice Bearce, who is a trained nurse, went to Fitchburg, Mass., Friday. Beulah Hutchinson has gone to Farmington to attend Normal school. Hazel Donham went back to her school in Springfield, Mass., Tuesday. Mrs. Blanch Merrill has gone to Atlantic City, N. J., to attend the National Encampment of G. A. R. and W. R. C.

George C. Childs of Mexico, who was obliged to pay a fine for throwing stones at the house of his neighbor, Walter L. Marston of that town, probably believes now that people should not throw stones, whether they live in glass houses or not.

HARTFORD.

 James Gammon orders in the sweet corn for the factory this year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Childs attended Oxford County fair the last day.
 Mrs. H. F. Ripley spent the day, Saturday, in Lewiston, shopping.
 Helen F. Robinson of Pennsylvania was a guest of Mrs. L. A. Keene one day.

Mrs. How. rd S. Palmer and little son Stuart, of Roslindale, Mass., are visitors at F. W. Palmer's.

Mrs. M. F. Ford returned from Quincy, Mass., Sept. 16, where she spent two weeks with friends and relatives.

Mrs. N. B. Burgess is improving every day since her return from the hospital. She is now able to ride out.
 Business is rushing at the corn factory and corn is doing well. The frost holds off late a good run is anticipated.
 Mrs. Dorcas Bartlett and son, Horace, were called to Massachusetts by the death of Mrs. Bartlett's brother. While there another brother died very suddenly.

Rev. L. M. Robinson, D. D., and Miss J. E. Massey of Pennsylvania left Tuesday for Bailey's Island and they will then go to Arlington Heights to visit in the family of W. F. Robinson before going to Pennsylvania.

Poultry For October.

On many large farms, especially in New England, it is the custom to raise the young poultry outdoors, in large groves or orchards, allowing them to roost on trees. Where that order is followed, the poultry are gathered up this month and gradually taught to roost in houses. It is no easy task to get these young, lively birds to forsake their "camping out" methods, but it must be done before winter sets in.

Many farmers do not really know how many young fowls they have raised until they are brought in and counted. It will, however, be a mistake to crowd the stock in tightly built houses; for having been raised out in the open air, close confinement will soon mean the introduction of colds, if not roup.

Advantage should be taken of the nice weather during October, for much outside work can be done now that would be more of a hardship during a cold season. The health and comfort of the fowls must be studied, and effort made to insure it to them.

On most farms October is the fall "on mashing month," and there should be no delay in the matter. Make a thorough job of it. Put it on thick, using a brush or sprayer.

This is also a good month to paint the outside of the buildings.
 Take every precaution against dampness. Much sickness can be traced to damp houses.

Now for the county fairs—and don't forget the poultry exhibit.
 If you are going to run incubators and brooders the coming winter and spring, you had better order them now, before the factories are rushed. Then study and practise with them before beginning actual work.

Don't forget to purchase a bone cutter. You will need one.
 The April hatched pullets should now be laying. It is a mistake to overcrowd them—not more than twenty-five should be allowed in a flock.

Market the surplus stock.
WEST PORTER.
 Andrew Varney & Son filled their silo last week.

J. T. Libby has one of the finest gardens in this vicinity.
 R. Libby has the heaviest corn that he has raised for 25 years.

Victor Hayes of Freedom, N. H., called on J. T. Libby, Sunday.
 Mrs. J. T. Libby called on Mrs. Ansel Aloys of business, Monday afternoon.

L. L. Thompson held Joseph Sargent of Freedom, N. H., put in his silo. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rice spent Thursday evening at the home of R. Libby and sons.

Rev. Albert Bryant of Eaton, N. H., preached at the Center schoolhouse, Sunday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Eastman are caring for his father's place while he is away.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Libby called on Mr. and Mrs. Tobias Libby, Sunday afternoon.
 Tobias Libby was at home over Sunday from Brownfield, where he is teaming for C. W. Bisbee at the mill.

Twelve head of young cattle, all white faced, passed through this vicinity Saturday, and they were beautiful.
 Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Eastman have gone to Freedom, N. H., to board the help that works in the woods at the Glidden mill.

Sidney Douglass finished work at Kezar Falls last week and will commence Monday making cider at his mill in this vicinity.
 Farmers are busy getting in their crops, digging potatoes and turning up their corn. Crops are good, better than for a number of years.

L. L. Thompson has bought a horse, harness and wagon of Herbert Chapman of Kezar Falls. Mr. Thompson thinks he has gone a foot long enough.
 J. T. Libby has been at home for a day or two suffering with a cold, but is better at this writing and will return to his work for the Woolen Mill Co., at Kezar Falls.

GREENWOOD.
 Herbert Ring and Wesley Ring are threshing grain and cutting ensilage in this locality.
 Mrs. R. D. Coburn returned from the hospital in Portland, last Saturday, much improved in health.

No frost of any consequence as yet, and our farmers are harvesting the best corn crop known in years.
 Greenwood will play her last game of ball this season with Locke's Mills, next Saturday, on the latter's grounds.

Our local Sunday school held their picnic, Saturday, on the grounds where the base ball team usually plays when at home. A good sized crowd was in attendance and everybody enjoyed the occasion.

As a sequel to the election, celebrations are in order. At an impromptu but nevertheless great celebration held in Bethel last week, many of our citizens attended, and report a high old time.

Since writing an item in reference to the dangerous illness of Perl Whitman we have learned of his death, while expected it came as a shock to his many friends in Greenwood. Mr. Whitman is now making her home for the present with her mother, Mrs. A. J. Hayes, in this town.

A. E. Ode, having harvested some three acres of corn on the town farm, announces a real old-fashioned corn husking for Wednesday evening of this week. We believe that if he can find a dozen or two red ears to conceal in the lot, there will be no lack of young people in attendance.

One result of an election bet among local men of the two parties will be a ball and supper at the expense of the Republicans, at Cole's hall in the near future. The details have not been arranged as yet, but in all probability it will come off some time next week.

EAST OXFORD.
 J. P. Penley and G. H. McKeen are hauling their corn to the factory.
 Dr. B. W. Blokford and wife of Lewiston, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George H. McKeen at Cedar Glen Farm, over Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Motley of Auburn with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holden of Paris, in their new auto, were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. McKeen.

SOUTH OTISFIELD.
 Edd Gerish has been calling on friends in this vicinity.
 Eva Lombard has been home two weeks, on a vacation.

E. B. Jilson is having a large contract of corn this year. Mr. Gammon and wife are working for Mr. Jilson.

In Memoriam.

Died September 2, 1910, Etta Day, aged 55 years, 5 months, 7 days.
 "Again our ranks are broken,
 And the angel we call Death,
 To his chosen one has spoken,
 And said: 'Thy breath!'"

Earth hath none kinder lost; Heaven none sweeter gained than this loved one who, after weeks of suffering, has laid down the burden and found rest. Ended now all care and du y, all pain and sorrow to doubt and mystery. Happiness and a clear understanding has come to her. She lived her helpful, loving, Christian life. She has earned her promotion.

With dear ones gone before, she is simply waiting in the Blessed Hereafter for the loved ones left behind. She wanted to live for all her dear ones, and that she might watch the unfolding of the sacred blossom left in her care by her whose life was the price of his. She felt the precious treasure was all her own to keep. She hoped to fill the dimpled hands with roses of love and joy, and a clear understanding has come to her. She thought to make bright all the paths for little Jamie's feet. Alas! never again on earth will he nestle in her loving arms, never again here may she kiss the sweet, innocent face.

Remember it is hard to have the hope and love of years taken away. There are days of loneliness and longing before you. Your dear one has gone out of your life, leaving you alone with the hopes you have buried alone with the sorrow which cannot die.

All that a true woman's love and thought could do, she did, to make home an ideal place.
 "Her days were full of sweetness,
 Her heart was generous, free,
 Her life in its completeness
 Was a picture rare to see."

Think of her now as loving you still, waiting for your coming to the heavenly home, where the bitterness of parting is past forever.

"After night, cometh the morning,
 After sorrow, joy!"
 Sister, she has left in your life a loss, a sorrow unutterable. The bond of sisterhood was very strong between you. You have loved her as few love and when the painful journey of sickness and death began, you were her constant companion. You smoothed the way. Faithfully you have all ministered unto her. Ah, you will miss the loved sister and long for her to come back to you. Well know her God asked with tearful eyes you would have pleaded, "I love her, oh let her stay!" but try and feel that your loss is her gain. Believe that you will meet her and know her in the life beyond, where never a shadow will fall upon you.

Brother, one by one the ties of earth are being broken. You have many whom you cherished here, waiting to welcome you on the golden shore. May the Crown of Love compensate for all the pain you have suffered.

Frieda, all you who grieve for this loved one just gone, look up from your tears and hear the Master saying to you, "What is thy pain to her happiness?"
 You will miss her everywhere, in the home, in the social life, in the churches where her sweet singing brought peace to many wounded hearts. Inspiration loved one just gone, look up from your tears and hear the Master saying to you, "What is thy pain to her happiness?"

You will miss her everywhere, in the home, in the social life, in the churches where her sweet singing brought peace to many wounded hearts. Inspiration loved one just gone, look up from your tears and hear the Master saying to you, "What is thy pain to her happiness?"

Often I've fancied I heard the music of angel voices from the other side, how the voice of this dear one is mingling with the heavenly chorus. I shall listen for it, and I shall know her song; for hers was the song of the heart.

Love and loved friend, I look backward along the years spent together in childhood, in girlhood, womanhood. I remember the joys and sorrows shared. With aching heart, I think of the sweet friendship last, but I wait in patience till we meet in the life to come for there we will renew it.

Partwell, but not forever,
 Love will bring our ones to us.
 "Fold her O Father in Thine arms,
 And let her henceforth be
 A messenger of love between
 Our human hearts and Thee." E. F.

BUCKFIELD.
 C. M. Heald was fined $5 and costs by Justice Rowell Barrows, Saturday morning for cruelty to his horse.

Larkin Farrar has returned from an extensive visit to relatives in Boston and Brockton, Mass., and is now working at the corn factory.

Mrs. Susan C. Millay of Bath, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. A. W. Pottle, Joseph A. Warren and family of Westbrook are also spending a week with Mrs. Warren's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pottle. Mr. Warren is general manager of the D. Warren Co. Paper Mills at Cumberland Mills. He has five daughters between the ages of 4 and 14 years, whose names are: Sarah, Martha, Jeanette, Georgia and Josephine.

The sudden death Sunday morning of Harry Hersey a young man about 21 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hersey has cast a gloom over this village, an excellent young man of good habits with many friends, his untimely decease is sincerely mourned by all. Blood poisoning starting from an abscess on his leg was the cause he was sick about a week. He was fond of music and it is thought that the playing of harmonicas possibly was an indirect cause of his illness. He had recently accepted the position of central telephone operator at the local office.

 R. C. Thomes of Andover, Mass., is spending a few days among his old neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cole of Portland, have just ended a week's vacation with the parents of the former.

Rev. John D. Long and Mrs. Long have returned from a week's trip to eastern Maine and the Provinces, and will remain at their summer home about a week longer.

Dr. H. G. Ulrich has returned from his annual outing at Kennebago Lake, and he and Mrs. Ulrich will remain here a short time before returning to their Philadelphia home.

An extension of the water system is in progress on Depot street to supply water and hydrant service to the barrel factory of Morrill & Cloutier and the corn packing factory of the Portland Packing Co.

Ruth Parker of Bath, a former teacher in our High school, was here over Sunday with old friends. Miss Parker is a graduate from Smith's College and will soon go to New York to take up post graduate work at Columbia.

The fall term of the High school, which has been delayed a week on account of unfinished repairs of the schoolhouse, was opened Monday with a large attendance. It has been found necessary to provide a second assistant teacher, and Thomas A. DeCosta of this village, a graduate from Gould Academy, has been elected to this position.

His Glimpse of War

By R. W. KEENAN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

In 1870, having been just graduated from college, I went abroad to see something of the world before settling to my life work. There was a great deal to see at that time—namely, one of the biggest wars of modern times. The Germans under Von Moltke were marching across the French border. Landing at Cherbourg, I went directly to Paris and, taking letters from the American minister, set out for the front to get a glimpse of war. Having been ten years too late in my birth to take part in our own great struggle in America, I was extremely desirous to witness a similar contest between the French and the Germans.

I was received kindly at the headquarters of Marshal MacMahon, but there were few great battles, and the two nations did not seem disposed to fight, one for the benefit of a young American who had come across an ocean to see "the fun." So after remaining for a time with the French I determined to join the Germans. I realized that passing from one army to its opposing one during actual war was a serious business, but I had heard so much of the thrilling episodes of war from friends who had fought in the American contest that my young blood was fired to participate in a similar affair. So, selecting a point between the lines where the French had no outposts, I left them and, walking down a road, was taken in by a Prussian vedette.

This was rather a tame adventure, and I was on the lookout for something more exciting. Though I was not aware of it, something more exciting was on the lookout for me.

I presented my credentials, which were my passport and my letters to the French commanders. I had struck the troops under General Manteuffel, and it was at his headquarters that the documents were examined. I was treated with the utmost civility by the officers of his staff. Indeed, I could not but contrast the attention I received with that of the French officers, who upon the statement of the American minister, vouching for me, permitted me to go pretty much where I pleased, but paid little heed to me. The Prussians showered me with attentions, but I was not permitted to go about at all. Indeed, excuses were made to keep me at headquarters.

One evening General Manteuffel's chief of staff gave a dinner at which were several ladies. I was the guest of honor and was seated beside a very beautiful woman who spoke English with a broken accent. I was young and correspondingly susceptible; therefore it is not surprising that before the evening was spent I had fallen under the spell which, had I been older, I might have seen was purposely thrown over me. Before the party broke up I and this lady were left alone together. Suddenly her manner changed from lightness to intense seriousness.

"I am being watched," she said. "Watched?"
 "Yes; they know my mission."
 "What mission?"
 "I saw you at MacMahon's headquarters. I was receiving my instructions while you were there. Save me!"

"How?"
 "They know that MacMahon has sent some one into their lines for information. If you take the risk for a time I will go free. If suspected you can prove that you are an American and will not suffer. I cannot prove that I am not a Frenchwoman. Here is the information I bear. Take it. If they find it on me I die. Keep it for me till the danger is past, then give it to me."

She thrust a little roll of tissue paper upon me. At the moment she did so a Frenchman officer entered, and I had no opportunity to hand it back without being seen. To do so would be equivalent to informing the officer that she was a spy.

But if found with the paper in my possession I would be shot.
 From that moment I was not for a second free from observation. When we were about to depart the chief of staff came to me and said:
 "We move at 2 o'clock. The general will have no one except soldiers with us. We have kept you at headquarters for your own good. You have seen nothing; therefore you may go back whence you came."

Without waiting for a reply he conducted me to the picket line. Glad to go free with the lovely spy's pellet, I walked hastily away. I was followed and arrested. Taken back to General Manteuffel's headquarters, I was searched and the paper found on me.

As I was being led away I passed the lady who had given me the paper. The officers were apologizing to her for something, and I heard them tell her her carriage was waiting for her.

I was kept under guard till morning, when an officer came hurrying toward me. As soon as he reached me he said angrily, "You are a fool!"
 "I am at any rate not a spy."
 "No; the real spy has gone. We learned that some one was among us and suspected two persons who came in at the same time—this woman and yourself. As soon as the woman had gone beyond our reach she sent us proof that she was in MacMahon's service and had duped you. You will depart for our fear at once."

I had had all of war I wanted and went.

In Central America many natives are gathering the seeds of this plant, Cedron Seed, a rare medicine that has valuable curative powers. But few drug stores carry this seed, owing to the high cost of the article.
 This country is a large consumer of this costly seed because it enters into the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna, sold the world over.

BETHEL.

Capt. Robbins B. Grover.

Capt. Robbins B. Grover, a prominent state manufacturer, union soldier, loyal citizen and philanthropist died at his home in Bethel, Me., Tuesday evening, Sept. 19, after an illness of six years, aged 69 years.

Capt. Grover was born in Bethel, Oxford county, Me., July 24, 1841. His father died when he was 8 years of age, and his youthful years were directed by an uncle, Robbin Grover, for whom he was named, and who brought him up, giving him the education of those days in the common schools and later apprenticing him to a tanner, this trade being the one which Capt. Grover followed until the beginning of the Civil war. The patriotism of the young man was early aroused, and his service in the Union army was of unusual length.

He enlisted as a private in Company H, 13 Maine Infantry. He had a brilliant record and during his service of five years was promoted to be sergeant, second lieutenant and first lieutenant, and was commissioned as captain Jan. 11 1865, and transferred to the 30th Maine Infantry. In September he was discharged at Portland, several months after the close of the war.

Among the comrades of Capt. Grover in the 13th Maine were ex-Gov. Henry B. Cleaves and ex-Judge Enoch Foster. After the war he went to Brockton and was at different times employed in the bakery and hotel business. In 1872 he went into the shoe business in which he was very successful.

Capt. Grover was married in Stoughton in October, 1867, to Mary Mears of Quincy, and his married life was an exceptionally happy and exemplary one, his wife's devotion and attention to him during his long period of illness being one of unselfish, loving and solicitous care.

In public matters Capt. Grover was a leading and zealous spirit, and his personality was infectious in its cheerful vigor and aggressive helpfulness.
